Why are we writing to you?

The Trustee is a data controller in respect of the personal information that we hold in relation to the Scheme. Because we use your personal information, we have to provide you with certain information in order to comply with Data Protection Laws.

This notice contains information on:

- the personal information we collect about you, what we do with this information and why we hold it. This is explained in more detail in section one (see page 2).
- who else we get personal information from and who else we share personal information with. This is explained in more detail in section two (see page 6).
- what rights you have in relation to your personal information and who to contact if you have any problems. This is set out in section three (see page 8).

We have set out additional information on how and why we process your personal information (see page 7), your rights under the UK GDPR (see page 12), third parties with whom we share your personal information (see page 16) and an explanation of the key terms and phrases that are used in this notice (see page 188).

SECTION ONE

ABOUT YOUR PERSONAL INFORMATION

What information do we collect and process?

We collect and process your personal information because you are or were a member, or are or were connected to a member of, the Scheme. We also collect personal information if you contact us in connection with your membership of the Scheme.

We collect and process the following categories of personal information about you:

- personal contact details – names, titles, addresses, telephone numbers and email addresses;
- information about you – dates of birth, gender, marital status, dependants next of kin and criminal records;
- payroll information – National Insurance numbers, payroll numbers, bank account details, tax status, salary / pay information;
- employment related information – name of employer, employment service start date and, where applicable, end date; and
- pension benefits – information about the pension benefits that you have accrued, investment choices and death benefit nomination forms.

If you have been identified as a potential beneficiary of a member of the Scheme (either because you have been nominated by the member, or because you may be eligible for survivor benefits following a member's death), the Trustee may collect and process personal information about you to the extent necessary to assess and administer any benefits that may be payable to you. This would include relevant information about you such as your personal contact details and identification documents (e.g. a passport, driving licence, or birth certificate).

What sensitive personal information do we collect and process?

We usually only ask for sensitive personal information when it is required to help us make a decision in relation to your rights under the Scheme. For example, we may request:

- health information / medical records – we may ask you to provide health information if you request payment of a benefit that can only be paid if you meet certain medical criteria (e.g. ill health early retirement benefits) or if insurers require it for additional underwriting. In addition to receiving this information from you, we may receive medical information from third parties such as your doctor or a third party occupational health provider; or
- other sensitive personal information – we may ask you to provide other sensitive personal information (e.g. information about your relationships) if it is relevant to help us decide on an internal dispute resolution procedure.

In addition, certain categories of special category personal data (e.g. race, ethnicity, religious beliefs and sexual orientation) may be revealed on nomination forms and on formal documentation that we process in order to identify the recipients of benefits under the Scheme (e.g. birth certificates, marriage certificates, driving licences and passports). You may also decide to provide us with special category data voluntarily (e.g. when raising queries or making a complaint).

Please see below Further information – Part One. More about how and why we process your personal information for more details on personal information we collect and process about you.

How do we collect your personal information?

When you join the Scheme, you and/or your employer provide personal details so that we can create your membership record.

This information is updated whilst you are a member of the Scheme. Updated information may come from:

- you (e.g. if you get in touch to let us know a new address);
- your employer (e.g. updated salary and payroll information); and
- other third parties (e.g. if you contact the Scheme's administrator to update your personal information or if HMRC provides us with information so that we can deduct the correct level of tax or if we need to obtain documentation (such as birth certificates or death certificates) from local authorities).

In addition, we may request additional information in certain circumstances (e.g. if you request to transfer your benefits to another pension scheme, if you apply for ill-health benefits or when you ask for your benefits to start being paid).

Why do we process your personal information?

We use this information to:

- set up your membership record for the Scheme;
- manage your membership of the Scheme;
- send you information that is relevant to your membership of the Scheme;
- calculate, pay and settle any benefits that you are entitled to;
- comply with our legal and regulatory duties;
- help manage risks and liabilities in the Scheme in order to seek to be able to pay full benefits as far as possible;
- help the Scheme's sponsoring employers comply with their legal and regulatory duties;
- communicate with members with information about the Scheme; and
- improve our information and knowledge of pension schemes generally.

What are our legal grounds for processing your personal information?

In order to comply with our legal obligations

As the Trustee of the Scheme, we are under legal obligations to process your personal information in order to comply with pensions and other relevant legislation, the Scheme's rules, court rulings and Pensions Ombudsman decisions. For example:

- legislation sets out certain things that the Trustee must do (e.g. sending certain information to the Scheme's members); and
- the Trustee is subject to fiduciary duties under trust law to act in line with the Scheme's governing documentation and to act in the interests of the Scheme's beneficiaries.

It is necessary for us to process your personal information in order to comply with these legal obligations.

In order to fulfil our legitimate interests

Processing your personal information is also legal if it is based on our 'legitimate interests'. We have a legitimate interest in running and managing the Scheme and managing the Scheme's risks and liabilities. In addition, certain third parties may have legitimate interests which require the processing of your personal information by the Trustee (e.g. your employer may need information in order to comply with regulatory requirements).

In order to rely on this legal ground, we have:

- considered the impact the processing has on your interests and rights; and
- implemented appropriate safeguards to ensure that your privacy is protected as far as possible.

What are our legal grounds for processing your sensitive personal information?

There are four legal grounds that allow us to process your known special category data (sometimes referred to as sensitive personal information):

- when processing is necessary for carrying out obligations under employment, social security or social protection law. This includes obligations under pensions law;
- when processing is necessary for reasons of substantial public interest (which, under the Data Protection Act 2018, applies to certain processing by the Trustee of an occupational pension schemes when making decisions about benefits);
- when we need to establish, exercise and defend legal claims; and
- if we obtain explicit consent from you for one or more specific purpose (e.g. when you sign one of the Scheme's forms which contains the appropriate consent wording). It is rare that we will do this as typically we need to use your personal data to carry out our legal obligations.

In addition to our existing legal grounds, we may process your personal data on the basis of 'recognised legitimate interests' as introduced by the Data (Use and Access) Act 2025. We may also process special category data about a nominated beneficiary (such as your parent, grandparent, great grandparent or sibling) without consent if it is necessary for determining eligibility for benefits under an occupational pension scheme and it does not involve measures or decisions about you. In such circumstances, we may rely on paragraph 21 of Schedule 1 of the Data Protection Act 2018.

What would happen if we did not collect and process your personal information?

If we did not collect and process your personal information then:

- we would not be able to manage or administer the Scheme;
- we would not be able to pay you the benefits that you are entitled to under the Scheme; and
- we could be in breach of our legal and regulatory duties.

How long do we keep your personal information for?

The Scheme was set up to provide benefits over a very long time. We need to maintain records in order to properly run the Scheme, to determine who should receive what level of benefits and when they should receive them, and to respond to any disputes about an individual's rights under the Scheme.

As a result, the Trustee will generally keep your personal information for the lifetime of the Scheme plus 15 years (the longest period of time that someone can bring a claim against the Scheme). Our service providers (and former service providers) may also have similar valid grounds to keep your personal information for such long periods.

SECTION TWO

USING AND SHARING YOUR PERSONAL INFORMATION

How do we keep your personal information secure?

We use a range of measures to safeguard your personal information, in line with the requirements set out in the Data Protection Laws. These apply to both paper and electronic records. We also require our third party service providers to give certain assurances and agree to contractual terms in respect of data protection and the security of your personal information.

What do we do with any personal information that is provided by third parties?

We receive personal information from sources other than directly from you. This includes information shared by your Scheme employer, the Scheme's administrator, its professional advisers, service providers and other relevant third parties.

If you are identified as a potential beneficiary of a member of the Scheme the Trustee may collect and process your personal information. Such information is typically obtained from the member (for example, through nomination forms), from you directly if you are making a claim or enquiry, or from other relevant third parties such as legal representatives or public authorities (for example, in the case of death certificates or proof of relationship).

When we receive this information, we add it to the information we already hold about you in order to help us make sure that your details are as up to date and accurate as possible and so that we can manage your membership of the Scheme and the Scheme more generally.

Who do we share your personal information with?

For the purposes of administering and managing the Scheme, managing its risks and liabilities, and paying benefits under it, the Trustee may need to share your personal information with third parties. This will include your employer (e.g. the payroll, finance, compliance, audit and HR teams) or former employer. It will also include third parties who provide advice or services to the Trustee. These third parties may include actuaries, administrators, auditors, insurers, prospective insurers, lawyers, medical advisers, qualifying Pensions Dashboards providers, the Money and Pensions Service, providers of investment platforms and products and any other such third parties as may be necessary for the operation of the Scheme and to enable the Trustee to carry out its duties.

Following recent changes in legislation, the Trustee will also be required to share data with a qualifying Pensions Dashboards provider or the Money and Pensions Service to ensure your up-to-date information is available to be requested via a Dashboard service. The final deadline for pension providers to connect to the Pensions Dashboard is 31 October 2026, with public access currently predicted for summer 2026. For more information, visit the Money and Pensions Service website: www.maps.org.uk/pensions-dashboards/.

We've set out a list of the third parties with whom we share your personal information together with links to their data protection and privacy information (see page 16).

Our suppliers and service providers who act as data processors must act in accordance with our instructions. Some of our suppliers and service providers also act as data controllers in respect of your personal information. We've included links to their online privacy information if you want to find out more about how they process your personal information.

In addition, like any organisation, we need to use suppliers to operate our systems, keep our records, send out correspondence to our members etc. These suppliers act as data processors, they will only use the information to provide their services to us and must act in accordance with our instructions.

We may, from time to time, use digital verification services to confirm your identity. This allows us to process your requests more efficiently and securely, such as when you log into your pension account or change your details. We will only use accredited providers and will only share the minimum amount of information required for the verification purpose, at your request. This process is governed by the Data (Use and Access) Act 2025, which regulates the use of these services.

In some circumstances, we may have to disclose your personal information by law, because a court or the police or other law enforcement agency has asked us for it. We may also need to pass your personal information to The Pensions Regulator or HM Revenue and Customs.

We may also share your personal data with the Scheme's sponsoring and participating employers to enable them to carry out activities in their legitimate interests (this is usually in connection with managing their business from a regulatory, HR or finance perspective).

Sometimes, in order to improve our knowledge and information of pension schemes generally (so that we may improve our ability to run the Scheme appropriately), we pool the personal data we hold with that of other pension schemes through third parties (for example, to obtain up to date and more accurate longevity data).

SECTION THREE

YOUR RIGHTS AND WHO TO CONTACT

What rights do you have in respect of your personal information?

In certain circumstances, you have the following rights in respect of your personal information:

- the right to object to us processing your personal information;
- the right to request access to personal information relating to you;
- the right to request that we correct any mistakes in your personal information;
- rights in relation to automated decision taking;
- the right to request to restrict or prevent processing of your personal information;
- the right to request to have your personal information transferred to another data controller (e.g. if you decide to transfer your pension benefits to another pension scheme); and
- the right to request to have your personal information deleted.

We've set out more information about these rights, along with information on how you can exercise your rights in respect of the Scheme in part two of the additional information starting on page 112.

How will we respond to your request?

We will usually respond to any request that you make in relation to your rights within 30 days of receiving your request. If your request is particularly complex, we may need to extend our time for responding by up to 2 additional months. We will let you know that we've received your request and let you know when we aim to respond. You can find out more about your rights under the UK's data protection laws at www.ico.org.uk.

Under the Data Protection Laws, there are exemptions which mean that, in certain circumstances, we may continue to store, process or transfer your personal information (for example where we need to comply with a legal requirement or have a legally valid or recognised legitimate interest in doing so) even if you ask us not to.

What should you do if you have any questions or complaints?

You may be entitled to compensation for damage caused by breach of the Data Protection Laws. If you do not think that we have processed your data in accordance with this notice, please contact us in the first instance (see 'How to contact us' below). If you are not satisfied, you can complain to the Information Commission. Information about how to do this is available on their website at www.ico.org.uk/concerns or by calling their helpline on 0303 123 1113.

FURTHER INFORMATION – PART TWO

MORE ABOUT YOUR RIGHTS UNDER THE UK GDPR

As a data subject, you have a range of rights under the Data Protection Laws. These rights are explained in more detail below. If you have any comments, concerns or complaints about our use of your personal information, please contact us directly.

You can email thermofisher@weareigg.com or write to us at:

The Trustee of the Fisher Scientific (UK) Limited Pension Scheme
Ross Trustees, part of Independent Governance Group
4th Floor, Cannon Plance
78 Cannon Street
London
EC4N 6HL
Alternatively, you can call 020 4599 7299.

Right to object to our processing of your personal information

You may object to us processing your personal information where we are relying on a legitimate interest as our legal grounds for processing. Our legal grounds for processing are set out in section one of this data protection notice (see page 2) and part one of the further information (see page 9).

If you have the right to object to processing (i.e. for personal information that we process in order to fulfil our legitimate interests or the legitimate interests of a third party) and you exercise this right, we will no longer be able to process your personal information unless we can demonstrate compelling grounds for continuing to do so. We believe we have demonstrated compelling grounds as set out in section one of this data protection notice (see page 2) and in part one of the further information (see page 9).

When we rely on a 'recognised legitimate interest' to process your personal data, you still have the right to object. If you do, we must stop processing your data unless we can demonstrate compelling reasons that override your interests, rights, and freedoms. This might happen, for example, if we need to use your data for reasons of public interest, such as safeguarding a vulnerable individual from harm or crime.

The key point to note is that, if we cannot continue to process your personal information, we would be unable to ensure that we are providing the correct level of benefits in respect of your membership of the Scheme. As we are legally required to pay the correct level of benefits to the right people at the right time, in these circumstances we may have to delay or even stop payments / requests until we have sufficient information.

Right to access personal information relating to you

You can ask us to confirm whether we are processing your personal information. If we are, you may ask us to provide the following:

- a copy of your personal information (please note that, if you want more than one copy of your personal information, we reserve the right to charge a reasonable fee based on our administrative costs for the provision of such further copies);

- details of the purpose for which your personal information is being, or is to be, processed;
- details of the recipients or classes of recipients to whom your personal information is, or might be, disclosed, including, if the recipient is based in a country outside of the UK, and, what protections are in place in relation to those overseas transfers;
- the period for which your personal information is held (or the criteria we use to determine how long it is held);
- any information available about where we obtained your personal information; and
- confirmation as to whether we carry out any automated decision-making (including profiling) and, where we do, information about the logic involved and the envisaged outcome or consequences of that decision or profiling.

When responding to subject access requests, we will conduct a reasonable and proportionate search for your data. We may pause the response period while awaiting further information from you and may charge a reasonable fee for manifestly unfounded or excessive requests.

To help us find the information easily, please give us as much information as possible about the type of information you would like to see.

If, to comply with your request, we would have to disclose information relating to or identifying another person, we may need to obtain the consent of that person if possible. If we cannot obtain consent, we may need to withhold that information or edit the data to remove the identity of that person if possible.

There are certain types of information which we are not obliged to disclose to you, which include personal information which records our intentions in relation to any negotiations with you where disclosure would be likely to prejudice those negotiations.

Right to correct any mistakes in your information

You can require us to correct any mistakes (including adding missing information) in any of the personal information concerning you which we hold. If you would like to do this please:

- write, call or email (see 'How can you contact us?' below);
- let us have enough information to identify you (e.g. account number, user name, registration details); and
- let us know the information that is incorrect and what should replace it.

Rights in relation to automated decision taking/making

The Trustee does not use automated decision making or profiling.

Automated decision making occurs when decisions are taken solely on automated processes. Under the Data Protection Laws, you have the right to ask that, if you are being evaluated (for example, when a bank carried out credit checks before making decisions on issuing loans or credit cards), any decisions are not solely based on automated processes and to have any decision reviewed by a member of staff.

These rights will not apply in all circumstances, for example where the decision is authorised or required by law and steps have been taken to safeguard your interests.

Right to request that we restrict the processing of your personal information

You may request that we stop processing of your personal information temporarily in any of the following circumstances:

- where you do not think that your personal information is accurate. In this case, we will start processing again once we have checked whether or not your personal information is accurate;
- where the processing is unlawful, but you do not want us to erase your data;
- where we no longer need the personal information for the purposes of our processing, but you need the information to establish, exercise or defend legal claims; or
- where you have objected to processing because you believe that your interests should override our legitimate interests. In this case, we will start processing again once we have checked whether or not our legitimate interests override your interests.

If our processing is restricted in any of the circumstances described above, we will inform you in advance if that restriction is to be lifted.

Right to request that we delete your personal information

You can ask us to erase your personal information where your personal information is being processed on a legal ground other than for complying with a legal obligation and:

- you believe that we no longer need to process your data for the purposes set out in this privacy notice;
- you had given us consent to process your data, but you withdraw that consent and there is no other legal ground upon which we can process your personal information;
- you have successfully objected to our processing your personal information; or
- it has been processed unlawfully or has not been erased when it should have been.

Right to request transfer of your personal information

You may, in specified circumstances, ask a data controller to provide you with an electronic copy of personal information that you have provided to it, or to have such a copy transmitted directly to another data controller.

Those circumstances do not, however, generally apply in relation our processing of your personal information in connection with the Scheme. This is because:

- our legal grounds for processing will not normally be that you have consented to the processing; and
- we do not carry out processing by automated means.

Right to withdraw consent

We usually only request your consent when we ask you for special category personal data. You have the right to withdraw any consent you have given us at any point.

However, as highlighted above, the Trustee only requests sensitive personal data that is required to make decisions in respect of specific member benefits or complaints. If you withdraw your consent for us to process this information, we may have to delay or even stop payments / requests until we have sufficient information.

What will happen if your rights are breached?

You may be entitled to compensation for damage caused by breach of the Data Protection Laws. If you do not think that we have processed your information in accordance with this notice, please contact us in the first instance.

If you are not satisfied, you can complain to the Information Commission. Information about how to do this is available on their website at www.ico.org.uk/concerns or by calling their helpline on 0303 123 1113.

- do not transfer the Scheme's data outside of the United Kingdom; or
- do or may transfer the Scheme's data outside of the United Kingdom, but only when certain protections that are approved by the European Commission or any other body as approved in the United Kingdom are applied.
